Announcements from President Stephen

1. My thanks to Vice President Greg McLeod for ably standing-in for me during the last two meetings.
2. We have received in the mail the January copy of Rotary World which features articles on:
 - Rotary support for AIDS orphans in South Africa
 - The first Rotary World Peace symposium at the RI Convention in Salt Lake City this year;
 - Literacy projects in Guatemala
 - Rotary funded schools in Ethiopia
 - Rotaract in Russia, and many other interesting topics

Our Bulletin editor Jerry Casburn will have this latest edition of Rotary world for anyone who is interested in looking through it.

3. The District Governor's February Newsletter is now available for all to read on the District website. Anyone who needs a hard copy please see me.
4. I have received an update on the RI Convention in Salt Lake City, so would any Rotarians who are going or considering going to the Convention please see me so I can get a copy to you.
5. Last weekend I received a phone call from DG Bob Northcote regarding the District 9520 Conference in the Barossa Valley on 3rd –6th May. Although the "early bird" date has passed, any members of the Unley Club wishing to attend the Conference but haven't yet registered can still do so by the end of this week for a considerably reduced registration fee. I will arrange copies of the registration forms for you.

There is accommodation gradually becoming available as clubs that have overbooked relinquish their reservations. For example, this afternoon I spoke to the President of the Rotary Club of Encounter Bay and he expects three double rooms to become available from that club, and there will no doubt be others as well.

Would any Unley Rotarians interested in attending the District conference please come and see me at the end of the meeting or contact me by phone or email as soon as possible.

6. There will be an extraordinary meeting of the Board at 10.30am on Saturday 10 February at Mama Carmela's, Unley to discuss the composition and leadership of the new Thrift Shop Committee.

Spots

Greg Love advised the club that the next Entertainment books are about to be launched and to expect more news in coming weeks. Cost will be $60 with some of the proceeds going to the club. Greg also reminded the club that he is trying to get a table together for the Rotary Club of Playford quiz night on 17th March and to advise him if you are interested, details in last week's bulletin. Finally Greg reminded the club to put the Melbourne cup lunch in diaries, see diary dates.

Bob Laws asked if any club members would be interested in providing mentoring to students, this has been a past activity of the club. The duties require a commitment of five hours approximately over a three month period. Please advise Bob if you are interested. Bob also advised that after a meeting of a subset of the Thrift shop committee they were seeking volunteers to look after a section of the thrift shop, e.g., books, bric-a-brac, etc., ensuring that the items look appealing and displays are regularly updated. Volunteers are also requested to assist in pricing, especially on Saturday mornings. President Stephen supported the request advising that he had seen a group of Rotarians and partners engaged in pricing items and having a lot of fun.

Sergeant's Session

John Russell was the man on the spot again and nobody smashed his glasses so he was still picking up titbits from the papers. Copious fines were awarded. John Peacham won the wine raffle and Chandra Sluggett won the lucky square.

An Offering from Reno Elms (Be careful how you email)

On Friday I saw in my email In-box some mail from "Train Five" entitled "Hi There". I immediately assumed that it was Spam and went to delete it but just in case I was wrong I clicked on it. To my surprise I was greeted with the message, "I think you're sexy". Well, I thought this confirmed my Spam theory and deleted it immediately while commenting to my volunteers that some people have too much time on their hands.

We were working on Red Shield Appeal preparation all morning. A little later another email appeared from "Train Five". This time I was definitely going to delete it when the subject title of the email caught my eye. The word "Apology" aroused interest and with a click of a mouse I discovered what the origin of the initial email was.

Let me explain.

"Train Five" was actually one of eight people in a computer training course in the Salvation Army's training department in Territorial Headquarters in Melbourne. "Train Five" had just commenced being taken through Domino Web Access (inotes) and was asked to send a message to another trainee. Now it so happened that "Train Five" had his wife in the course also and she was "Train Seven" so he sent her a little "personal note" in this new inotes system. It also happened that, unknown to him, a previous user of his computer had used an address in the bcc address area of the email that accessed every active Salvation Army Officer including Commissioners, Colonels, Majors, Captains and Lieutenants across the whole of Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia, Northern Territory and Tasmania. Hence, the "I think you're sexy" message earlier in the day arrived at every Salvation Army Church (corps) and social centre in these states (over 500 in all).

The apology mentions that the writer was just sending "a short note to my wife" and "I apologize profusely for any offense taken or if this e-mail has hindered your work in any way".

Well there was no hindrance to any one's work that day, just a lot of laughter and a very embarrassed Salvation Army Officer at THQ who has gone into hiding, so we think. The IT Department is not disclosing any names of who was present at the course (there has been quite a few enquiries) but there is a major investigation being conducted and none of it is official.

The Salvation Army was also pretty popular on Friday night in the pubs

Guest Speakers

This being a Rotary Information and Committees night there was no speaker.

Joke for the Week

How to stay married!

A man and woman had been married for more than 60 years. They had shared everything. They had talked about everything. They had kept no secrets from each other except that the little old woman had a shoebox in the top of her closet that she had cautioned her husband never to open or ask her about.

For all of these years, he had never thought about the box, but one day the little old woman got very sick and the doctor said she would not recover. In trying to sort out their affairs, the little old man took down the shoebox and took it to his wife's bedside. She agreed that it was time that he should know what was in the box. When he opened it, he found two crocheted dolls and a stack of money totaling $95,000.

He asked her about the contents. "When we were to be married," she said, "my grandmother told me the secret of a happy marriage was to never argue. She told me that if I ever got angry with you, I should just keep quiet and crochet a doll."

The little old man was so moved; he had to fight back tears. Only two precious dolls were in the box. She had only been angry with him two times in all those years of living and loving. He almost burst with happiness. "Honey," he said, "that explains the doll, but what about all of this money? Where did it come from?" "Oh," she said, "that's the money I made from selling the dolls."

Club Website

Members are again reminded that a wealth of local, national and international Rotary information is available to them by visiting the club's website at <http://unley.rotaryclub.org.au>. A list of members and roster details can also be found. Please contact Stephen Westgarth with any comments about the website or if difficulty is experienced in accessing it. Updates to information on the website will be made progressively by Webmaster Stephen as time permits. Those members preparing and maintaining rosters are requested to provide soft copy information to Stephen for posting on the website for the benefit and information of all members.
