Guest Speaker – Peter Heyworth:

Vulcanology and Crater Capers

Peter, David and the Rotary pen

Chairman David Payne introduced Peter who has been a geologist, teacher and Baptist Pastor. He has science, education, religious and other qualifications. As well as his passion for hot rocks, he is a dedicated volunteer with young people and has filled training and administration roles.

While hard rocks are his joy, much of his working life was spent in the coal industry. Peter provided a spectacular power point and video presentation of his research into and encounter with volcanos.

The active volcano in Chile attracts world-wide attention. Australia has no similar volcanos. The closest (dormant) volcano is at Mt Gambier which last erupted 5000 years ago. Sites of other dormant or inert volcanos worth visiting are Glasshouse Mountain and the Undara Lava Tubes in Queensland. The Pacific Ocean has the 'Ring of Fire' stretching up to Japan and down to New Zealand. Rotorua in NZ with its thermal springs and Hawaii with its lava discharges are prime tourist sites to see volcanic activity on display.

One of Peter's favourite spots is Mount Yasur on Tanna Island in Vanuatu. This active volcano has three small vents which spume fire, rocks and ash into the air. The magma with a temperature of over 1200C is only two kilometres below the surface. The glowing hot rocks on discharge can be 1000-1100C.....and there are many more of lower temperatures. Peter used the ultra-crispy chicken analogy as the sort of damage that can be caused. Considerable care has to be taken when visiting the site as evidenced by the number of rocks found in the car-park which is 400 metres from the crater. Mount Yasur is monitored around the clock and ratings provided for the benefit of locals and visitors. Category 1 is relatively benign while Category 5 alerts to dangerous activity. There is crystallisation of the magma as it emerges as lava. Granite is solidified magma.

For those with an interest in volcanos, the undoubtedly best site is the lava lake in Ethiopia, where the hot lava acts like a sea with swells and currents.

Peter was thanked by acclamation.

Spots & Sergeants Session

Bob Laws announced that the club would be hosting the Thrift Shop volunteers at the Unley Community Centre on 17 August.

Stephen Baker paraded a scarf left at the club changeover at Kooyonga Golf Club but no takers.

Sergeant Alex Jonson with the help of our guest speaker extracted Bob Laws' marble for the appalling squares.....this is the 4th time this year that Bob has scored....new rules may need to be introduced (or his favourite marble lost). Perhaps the happiest moment was when Mavis declared she was delighted to be back in town. Bob Mullins, suffering from a loss of Power, bravely provided a rhyme which went a similar way.

The meeting closed at 7.50pm

Rotary International News

Blown away by the realities of human trafficking

By Arnold R. Grahl - Rotary News -- 8 July 2014

Thousands of homeless youth a year fall victim to child sex trafficking, a form of human trafficking, which is also referred to as the modern-day slave trade.

At the age of 17, Jennifer was sleeping on the streets of Atlanta.

She'd felt abandoned most of her life, unprotected from her brothers and her mother's boyfriends, who physically and sexually abused her since she was five. And now, kicked out of her house, Jennifer - whose last name is withheld for privacy - was alone and vulnerable. She was soon lured into sex trafficking and was unable to escape for two years. Then she found Covenant House.

"Studies have shown that if a young person ends up on the street, within 48 hours someone is going to approach them with the intention of exploiting them, typically for sexual exploitation," says Allison Ashe, executive director of Covenant House Georgia, one of 22 facilities in the U.S., Canada, Mexico, and Latin America. "But a lot of the time it happens so quickly that they come to us already exploited. Our work is then to help them heal and build a future for themselves."

The Rotary Club of Atlanta is helping young people like Jennifer through a $4.1 million campaign to expand the Covenant House, the city's only crisis center for homeless youth. At the start of the campaign two years ago, the house had just 15 beds and two bathrooms. Another 10 youths slept on floor mats, while others were on a long waiting list.

In June, the shelter moved into its new campus, which includes a 45-bed crisis facility and several outbuildings that make up an independent-living unit. A school building on the property provides space for an art therapy program, a library, a health care clinic, and recreational activities.

"When you walk onto the campus, it doesn't feel like a crisis shelter," says Ashe. "It feels like a college campus where kids can come and heal, learn, grow, and move toward their future."

Clark Dean says his club became interested in the issue after inviting U.S. Attorney Sally Yates as their speaker, who explained that Atlanta is a major hub of child sex trafficking.

"It took the oxygen out of the room," Dean says of Yates' presentation. "When our club hears something like that, we want to act. Fortunately, we are blessed to have members who are in a position to make things happen."

The Atlanta Rotary Club is well connected in the community. Dean, a real estate executive, found and brokered a deal on a property in foreclosure for the new facility. The Atlanta Hawks basketball franchise, whose president is a club member, has contributed tickets and items for the club's silent auction. And Tad Hutcheson, an executive at Delta Airlines, organized more than a hundred volunteers to assist in cleaning up and renovating the new campus during a citywide volunteer service day. Delta also contributed $100,000 to the campaign. Atlanta Rotarians have reached $3.6 million of their fundraising goal.

The campaign will also fund an expansion in counseling services. The center has a general mental health program and employs specialists in sexual abuse, substance abuse, and addictions. An education program aims at putting kids back in high school, if they are still at an appropriate age, or helping older kids earn a GED, as Jennifer is doing. Kids can also learn vocational skills, résumé writing, and interview skills, and are placed in jobs when they are ready through a partnership with certain employers in the city.

In November, Atlanta Rotarians took part in an Executive Sleep Out, an event where business leaders toured the facility, met with kids, and spent the night outside in solidarity with them. Ashe is overwhelmed by the support Rotary has provided.

"We were able to get the facility up and running for very minor costs because so much was done by volunteers," she says. "Rotary is an incredible example of what happens when a community of leaders comes together around an issue."

A candlelight vigil was held at Covenant House to raise awareness of child sexual exploitation

The Back Page

These are really important facts - George Bush knows, but do you?

No piece of paper can be folded in half more than seven (7) times. (Oh go ahead...I'll wait...!)

Donkeys kill more people annually than plane crashes or shark attacks. (So, watch your Ass)

You burn more calories sleeping than you do watching television. (TV snoozing gets a tick!)

The first product to have a bar code was Wrigley's gum (presumably before chewed).

Venus is the only planet that rotates clockwise. (Since Venus is normally associated with women, what does this tell you.....That women are going the 'right' direction?)

Most dust particles in your house are made from dead skin. (Ya gotta stop scratching!)

It is possible to lead a cow upstairs but not downstairs. (Two storey homes are out)

Dentists have recommended that a toothbrush be kept at least six (6) feet away from a toilet to avoid airborne particles resulting from the flush. (I keep my toothbrush in the living room now!)

Turtles can breathe through their butts. (I know some people like that, don't YOU?)
