Guest Speaker - Neil Jericho: Micro economics of running your own business

Chairman Jerry Casburn introduced Neil who was born on a Riverland vineyard and who has spent most of his working life (40 years) in the wine industry. He has been a winemaker for Campbells, Brown Brothers, and general manager of Taylors Wines at Clare for 15 years where he saw production of cases increase from 150,000 to 700,000 per annum. He studied traditional port making in Portugal and practised treading grapes in the lagares. He and his grown up family have started their own Jericho Wines business with each of the three children contributing to an expanding business.

Neil stressed that it was the range of skills which his children 'brought to the table' .....winemaking, accounting, graphic design and commitment.....which, together with his background, made it viable to start their own company. The selection of grapes is made through round table discussion as are all the serious decisions. The first crush was 8 tons and this has grown to 70 tons. There are 6 wines (2 whites & 4 reds) produced which are priced at $25 or $35. Their wine is very well received by local restaurants looking for more unique offerings.....the Jericho high quality is enhanced by the label design. Neil does much of the leg-work with the restaurant trade.

His two essentials for creating a successful small business are good communications and reliable accounting. The business is heavily reliant on its cash flow spread sheet. The hardest task for small business is obtaining finance from the banks to enable the initial set up and to cover expansion. Because of his background and sizeable savings this has been more straight forward than most others would experience.

Following extensive questions, Neil was thanked by acclamation. and given the fabulous Unley aerator.

Sergeant's Session

Sergeant Bob Mills had Pam Trimmer's marble extracted for the atrocious squares.....but no reward was given. Treasurers lead a tough life. Reno provided contrasting happiness contributions. He told of his heart-warming experience with a woman who despite leading a difficult life and caring for a disabled daughter contributed $1,000 towards the provision of handicapped toilet facilities. He also declared that his email system had been fixed and ready responses would prevail?? Stephen displayed his award winning Barry McKenzie outback hat and contributed to next week's Hat Day fundraising.....he was delighted to have survived the Flinders Ranges, where the hat worked admirably, with his six grandchildren. Sergeant Bob finished the night on a high note with story about a well-trained crocodile.

The meeting closed at 7.55pm.

Rotary and ShelterBox on the ground in Haiti

By Maureen Vaught - Rotary News 14 Oct 2016

Even as parts of Haiti were still recovering from a catastrophic 2010 earthquake, Hurricane Matthew tore through the impoverished island country 4 October, leaving hundreds dead and many more homeless.

The Category 4 storm affected an estimated 330,000 people in Haiti, including 6,400 who were moved to temporary shelters. Extensive damage to main bridges and other transportation networks have left some areas cut off and vulnerable. Torrential rains have resulted in flooding and landslides. And contaminated water supplies threaten to lead to a surge in cholera cases and other waterborne illnesses.

A ShelterBox response team of volunteers from Canada, England, New Zealand, and the United States traveled to Port-au-Prince, Haiti's capital, last week to assess the damage and decide how best to help people. ShelterBox, an independent charity, is Rotary's project partner for disaster relief.

Working with Rotary members, government authorities, and other relief agencies, ShelterBox is focusing on the cholera outbreak in the southern region of the island and emergency shelter. A shipment of ShelterBox supplies arrived in Les Cayes, in the south of Haiti, on Wednesday, which likely will be used to help health professionals screen and treat cholera victims.

"We hope to provide ShelterKits along with other crucial supplies like solar lights, mosquito nets, water purification units, and water carriers. All of which will help in the fight against cholera," says Chris Warham, chief executive of ShelterBox.

With wind speeds reaching 155 miles per hour, Hurricane Matthew is considered the worst storm to make landfall in Haiti in more than 50 years.

Storm's path hits United States and Canada

The destructive path of the hurricane cut through communities in Florida, Georgia, and South and North Carolina, USA, and as far northeast as Nova Scotia, Canada, causing flooding, severe damage, injury, and death. Rotary members are working together to provide emergency supplies and help families find shelter.

"Rivers are still rising and expected to crest on Sunday," says Rusine Mitchell Sinclair, governor of District 7710 in North Carolina. "We'll work with our neighboring districts to provide relief once the flooding has peaked and we can get in to assess what's needed."

Staff from ShelterBox and the United Nation's World Food Program help unload a delivery of ShelterBox supplies at Les Cayes Harbor in Haiti, where tents are likely to be used to help health professionals screen and treat cholera victims.
