

Facebook Security

Club Facebook Page security is a serious matter. In light of recent events it's a good time to remind you all of a few simple tips to make sure your club Facebook page is set up appropriately.

It is most important that if your club decides to have a Facebook presence, that it is set up as a PAGE, and NOT as a PERSON.

PEOPLE on Facebook have FRIENDS, whereas PAGES have LIKES. If you have received a Friend Request from an entity that is not a person, such as a business or community group, it's been set up incorrectly. A Facebook Friend may invite you to LIKE a page they have created or are involved in.

So there's the first tip... Rotary Clubs looking to join Facebook should be set up as a PAGE (only after endorsement by the Board of the club).

The second important aspect of a Rotary Club Facebook Page, is that it should have at least two people as administrators. There are two good reasons for this. Firstly, it's a good idea to spread the load of updating the page and keeping it relevant. These administrators should also be authorised by the club board. They should be trusted members of the club with a good understanding of Facebook.

The second reason to have at least two administrators is that if one becomes ill, gets too busy, or leaves the club, the other will still have access and can assume responsibility. Having a second administrator to a Facebook page is like having a second signatory to a bank account. It's just a smart thing to do!

There are many people in our district who are ready and willing to help you with your Facebook concerns, including but not limited to Steve Hayter, Mark Huddleston & Lindsay Davis. If you need some help, give them a call, you'll find them all in the District Directory.

Tips for helping Youth Exchange Host Families

Giving young people the opportunity to discover new cultures and expand their understanding of the world are key benefits of the Rotary Youth Exchange program. Yet clubs often struggle to find families who are willing to open their homes – and their hearts -- to these enthusiastic young people. A recent LinkedIn discussion offered these tips to help your club find and nurture a Youth Exchange host family:

1. Pay it forward. Ask parents of former Youth Exchange participants to host an inbound student. They understand the importance of finding responsible parents to provide a home for these special guests.

"They see the positive change the program has had on their son or daughter and understand the impact [host parents] can have," says Brian McAdam, a member of the Rotary Club of Cobourg, Ontario, Canada. He points to another benefit of contacting former outbound parents: "We've generated a couple of new members."

2. Go back to school. Schools, churches, and community sports or arts leagues can be great resources for finding hosts. Ask the foreign language teachers in your local high school if they would be interested or if they know of a family who would enjoy sharing their home with a foreign exchange student.

3. Take turns. Have at least three families take turns hosting a student throughout the year. While there are advantages (a shorter commitment for hosts) and disadvantages (multiple moves and readjustment for students), having several families share hosting duties can be a strong selling point, and enhance the overall cultural experience.

4. Arrange for time out. Everyone can benefit from a little time apart. Ask members of your club to host the exchange student for day trips and special activities. Don't wait for volunteers -- keep a calendar at club meetings to encourage members to act on those good intentions.

5. Meet up. Invite potential hosts, including Rotary members, friends, family, and neighbors to events organized for exchange students.

"If you can get Rotary members to interact with these amazing kids, you may have less difficulty finding host parents," says Judi Beard-Strubing, New Generations chair for District 5110 in Oregon and Northern California, USA.

6. Double-the fun. It's sometimes easier to find host families if more than one club sponsors an inbound student. Work with a nearby club to co-host a student and expand your pool of host volunteers.

7. Have their back. A strong support system for hosts and students is key to a successful year for everyone. Each student should have a Rotary counselor, who serves as a liaison between the student and the host club, host family, and community. Learn more about the counselor role in the Youth Exchange Handbook.

Rotary Leadership Institute

Rotary Clubs are encouraged to select at least one candidate for RLI annually.

Participants return to their Club with:

- Confidence
- Enthusiasm
- New contacts
- Fresh ideas
- Increased understanding of their potential as Rotarians
- Valuable skills impacting their potential leadership in the Club

Comments from Rotarians who have attended RLI

- "Good course, well presented covering a lot of ground".
- "Great to have more detail about Rotary beyond what we do at the Club".
- "Good to share knowledge and ideas. Loved the enthusiasm and obvious commitment".
- "Very interesting and thought provoking. The sessions flowed well".
- "Valuable information for new members but also for established Rotarians".
- "We think we know all about Rotary and it's workings but this course facilitates, enlightens and educates more about leadership in Rotary".

Recognition:

RLI offers a leadership course in two consecutive days.

Those attending each of the two course days for the full duration will receive recognition in the form of a Certificate and Special Pin.

What is the difference between RLI and PETS?

RLI is a general educational program, which starts well before Rotarians may wish to take on more demanding Club leadership roles. It ensures Rotarians have a good grounding in Rotary whilst developing their greater leadership skills.

PETS, like most RI training programs is "Job Specific". It prepares incoming Club Presidents for that role.

Why do we need a Leadership Institute?

Rotary's strength depends on the quality, education and leadership of its Rotarians. Leadership skills in a voluntary organisation differ from those required in a business environment. Equally, it is difficult, in the busy schedule of most Clubs to learn enough of the exciting world of Rotary with its over 1.2 million members in over 160 countries.

Clubs want the best, most skilled Rotarians possible to lead with vibrancy, confidence and enthusiasm. The RLI program combines these two facets to ensure development of strong leadership skills coupled with sound Rotary knowledge.
